Testimonial from Simon Shaw

Before doing PEP we all experienced the same problems, for example, death by e-mail to a greater or lesser degree. PEP has now brought us closer together as a team and, as result of doing PEP, we all now have more time to focus on our Key Performance Indicators and by giving us tools to manage our time we can focus on our activities and goals which are linked to our corporate strategy.

I originally took PEP in order to become more efficient in my daily work habits and to feel "more in control" of my work and the associated information flow. I was also keen to get some help in controlling workplace distractions. PEP helped me to focus and also gave me tools to concentrate on the relevant information. It gave me more control over my time and provided a series of tools to help me focus on what is important.

The 1:1 time with our coach was extremely valuable. It helped block in the learning from the classroom. The spacing of the program over the period of weeks was good because it helped us to practice what we have learned. The mix of classroom learning and time at the desk is different because it helps lock in what you have learned in the classroom.
